Hartford Republican

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY MORNING.

FRIDAY, JULY 14, 1893.

WE ARE AUTHORIZED TO ANNOUNCE

DAN F. TRACY

As a candidate for State Senator from the 8th Senatorial District, subject to the action of the Republican party.

WE ARE AUTHORIZED TO ANNOUNCE

C. SLADE TAYLOR

Of the Cromwell Precinct, as a candidate for State Senator from the 8th Senatorial District, subject to the action of the Republican party.

TO THE VOTERS OF OHIO, MULLENBERG AND BUTLER COUNTIES:—I am a candidate for Senator in the District composed of your counties. Being a Republican, I will submit my claims to the Convention of that party. Soliciting the support of all Republicans in the Convention, I am,

Yours truly,

E. D. GUFFY.

Hartford, Ky., June 29, 1893.

TO THE VOTERS OF OHIO COUNTY:

—I take this manner of announcing to you that I am a candidate for the office of Superintendent of Public Schools in this county. Have been a citizen of the county forty-five years and, during all that time, have been working in the educational interests of the county, both in the school room and through the columns of the papers. I now ask you for the first time in life for a county office. Can I get it?

Respectfully,

W. L. HAWKINS.

A DESTRUCTIVE fire occurred at the World's Fair Monday, in which many buildings and a number of lives were lost.

It is now less than two weeks until the time of Sam Jones' lectures. Those who fail to hear the great evangelist will lose an opportunity of a lifetime. Seats are selling rapidly.

While the country is undergoing a great financial strain, stocks are falling and values shrinking by billions, the great Grover is calmly fishing at Bozard's Bay. What a likeness to Nero's fiddling and Rome's burning.

In giving the list of applicants for Government positions last week we gave the name of T. J. Smith, whom we had heard named with the rest. Mr. Smith informs us that he is not and will not be an applicant for any Federal position whatever.

We announce this week Prof. W. L. Hawkins, of Hartford, as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for School Superintendent of Ohio county. Prof. Hawkins is a man of great force of character and has been one of the leading teachers of the county for many years. He has many strong supporters who will zealously care for his interests through the campaign.

The official announcement of the State School Fund per capita has not yet been made, but the amount will be perhaps not far from $2.75. Every district will be required to have a five months' school and the general per capita will be reduced somewhat in all counties having districts with less than 45 pupils. This county has 17 schools with a total deficit of 242 pupils, below 45 to the district, which number will be added to the total number of pupil children in the county, thus decreasing, a few cents, the per capita for the county. Trustees and teachers will bear this in mind when making contracts. The general per capita and the county per capita will be announced shortly.

In the late unpleasantness in which the denizens of the REPUBLICAN office were reluctant participants public opinion, we are glad to say, fully exonerates us. We mean by public opinion the opinion of the good and law-abiding people. We understand one or two of our friends are very sadly displeased that the last vestige of the REPUBLICAN office and its force was not swept from terra firma. But the saddest, least looked for and most unkindly cut of all, is that His Majesty, the Great and Only, Grand Gistitutis who presides with high-headed dignity over the destinies of the Owensboro mail-and-jug wagon, is "agin" us, and says we "orter be cleaned out," and if he say so it must be so.

Things have come to a very strange pass in Kentucky when a citizen and his employees peaceably engaged in their daily avocation are made the victims of an organized conspiracy, a conspiracy whose participants, armed with the loaded end of buggy whips, knives and concealed weapons, go deliberately to that citizen's place of business for the boasted and express purpose of raising a row, raise that disturbance and bring on the attack with their deadly weapons, endangering and threatening the lives of peaceable citizens—we repeat, it is indeed passing strange that such things occur in a State so free to boast of the laws abiding life of her people, her respect for public educators and the freedom of the press within her bounds. When a man with a supposed grievance gathers around him unguarded associates, fans his fancied wrongs into heat by means of political prejudice and thus wrought up proceeds as above indicated to molest a citizen and to disturb the peace of the community, to say the least of it, makes a very serious mistake and does his friends a great injury. The press is an educator, as much an educator as the minister of the gospel or the teacher of our schools and colleges. Take away from the newspaper the right to condemn that which is wrong, that which is immoral, that which is detrimental to the peace and welfare of the people and you strike a death blow at our social and civil institutions. And now as a public educator claiming these rights, in fact having these duties incumbent upon it by virtue of its position, the REPUBLICAN proposes to speak out on any and all subjects, at any and all times it may choose.

A Card.

TO THE REPUBLICANS OF OHIO, BUTLER AND MULLENBERG COUNTIES:—I am surprised to learn that my opponents, in the contest for nomination for Senator, are having circulated, in localities where I have not had the pleasure of addressing the Republicans, reports that I am disloyal to the Republican party and have advocated principles opposed to those of the Republican party.

As to my loyalty to the party, I simply refer to the poll books of the precincts where I have cast all my votes, (Hartford and Morgantown, Ky.) As to the political principles advocated by me, I can only refer to the political speeches I have made. The best evidence I can offer is the speeches made by me during the last campaign, being the most recent testimony.

I have taken the trouble to secure the statements of some well known gentlemen who heard the speeches, which I here offer:

HARTFORD, KY., July 7, 1893.
TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:—During the campaign of 1892 I heard E. D. Guffy make two political speeches in Ohio county, and only two—one at McHenry and one at Beda. In each of those speeches he advocated the entire Republican platform and especially commended and advocated the McKinley Protective Tariff Bill.

M. L. HEAVRIN.

July 7, 1893.
TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:—During the campaign of 1892 I was present and heard E. D. Guffy, of Hartford, Ky., make two public political speeches in Ohio county, one at Cromwell, the other at Bell's Run Church, in each of those speeches, Mr. Guffy endorsed and advocated the entire Republican platform and especially advocated and endorsed the McKinley Protective Tariff Bill. The speeches above mentioned are all I heard Mr. Guffy make.

JNO. P. MORTON, J. P. O. C.

BEDA, KY., July 8, 1893.
TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:—During the campaign of 1892 I heard E. D. Guffy, of Hartford, Ky., make two political speeches, one at Beda and one at Bell's Run Church, in each of those speeches Mr. Guffy advocated the entire Republican platform and especially endorsed and advocated the McKinley Protective Tariff Law.

WOOD TINSLEY,

Ch'm'n Rep. Executive Co. Com.

HAMILTON, KY., July 10, 1893.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:—We, the undersigned, were present at McHenry, Ky., during the campaign of 1892 and heard E. D. Guffy make a political campaign speech at the McHenry Schoolhouse. In that speech Mr. Guffy advocated the platform of the Republican party and especially endorsed and advocated the Protective Tariff policy of the Republican party, and particularly the Tariff Law called the McKinley Bill.

SAM JAMES,

L. FRANCIS,

RICHARD FRANCIS,

ALBERT CHINN,

G. W. RENDLER,

HENRY SMITH,

R. P. TOLL,

JOHN FIELDEN,

SIMON JONES.

July 12, 1893.

I heard E. D. Guffy make a public speech at Taylor Mines, Ky., in the campaign of 1892, in that speech he advocated the entire Republican platform and particularly the Tariff Law called the McKinley Bill.

Very respectfully,

W. A. GIBSON.

The foregoing statements are in my possession and may be seen by anyone. Mr. Tracy, one of my opponents, was present at the Bell's Run speaking and knows the truth about that. The speech at Cromwell I made at the invitation of the "Hubbard Club" of which club my opponent, Mr. Taylor, was an officer (President I think). He was present at the speaking and was at that time the presiding officer of the meeting. He knows the truth of the statement regarding that speech.

I am willing that my Republicanism be tested by my votes and speeches. Soliciting your support in the Convention, I am,

Yours Resp'y,

E. D. GUFFY.

Hartford, Ky., July 12, 1893.

WASHINGTON.

What will the Republicans do in the coming Congress? That question has been asked so often since Mr. Cleveland issued his unexpected proclamation convening Congress in extra session on August 7, that your correspondent has endeavored to answer it by obtaining the views of the Republican Congressmen who have been in Washington during the week. Not many of them have been here, but the unanimity of opinion among those seen makes it fair to assume that they voiced the sentiments of at least three-fourths of the Republicans in the Senate and House, and their opinions may be summed up thus:—The Democrats having a majority in both House and Senate, there exists no reason for the promulgation of a Republican program. That is the business of the majority. When that program is presented the Republicans with few exceptions may be counted upon to lay aside all desire to obtain more partisan advantages and to stand up for the benefit of the country. In short, if Mr. Cleveland's program be a patriotic one it will be supported by the Republicans, who have in every public crisis since the party was represented in Congress proven themselves to be patriots first and partisans afterwards. Nobody need worry about the positions of the Republicans in Congress; they will be found voting for the right every time.

Everybody, including members of the Cabinet and other leading Democrats, are in the dark about what Mr. Cleveland's program will be. It is known, of course, that he wishes the Sherman Silver law repealed, but nobody seems to know whether he has any idea of a substitute for that measure that will provide in some way for the silver already owned by the government, both coin and bullion, as well as for the future of silver as a money metal. It is not necessary for a man to be a skilled financier in order for him to see the necessity for some substitute. The Sherman law repealed all other silver laws and to unconditionally repeal it would be to wipe out all recognition of silver money, to put the country upon a single gold standard and turn the silver money now owned by the government into just so many ounces of silver bullion; and few even among the most extreme advocates of a gold standard believe that such a radical change could be so suddenly made without wholesale disaster, and it is not believed here that it will be possible to accomplish the unconditional repeal of the Sherman law, while the belief is general that it can be easily repealed if a reasonable and sensible substitute therefor is presented. Mr. Cleveland has a grand opportunity to prove himself a patriotic President and his message to Congress, which will be generally conceded as the official program of his party, will show to what extent he takes the advantage of it.

While there are a few men here who profess to believe that the extra session will be a short one the great majority believe that it will run into the regular session and that the regular session will be one of the longest ever held. An offer was made without a taker, by a Democratic Congressman, to wager from $100 to $500 that Congress would be in session August 7, 1894.

It is already certain that it is going to be a fighting session, but the fighting is going to be among the Democrats. The first fight will be on the proposed Closure rule, which will be antagonized by what is known as the silver Democrats, and the Republicans may conclude to take a hand in it. Then there will be a fight over the important House Chairmanships. Springer, Holman and Bland are all slated to be turned down, and they will not give up very easily.

A little incident took place on Wednesday of this week in the temporary office of the Record and Pension division of the War department, which passed through the Ford's Theater horror, that adds another proof to the many already existing, that a black skin may cover a hero's heart. It was the presentation of a handsome gold watch to the negro, Basil Lockwood, who at the risk of his own life was instrumental in rescuing 75 clerks from the upper floor of the wrecked building. One of the rescued clerks made the presentation speech, and his closing words tell the story—"With the fearful crash of the falling floors still sounding in our ears and the moans of our dying comrades coming up to us from the awful wreck, with the floors under our feet and the walls around us still trembling from the shock, you reached to us the ladder which then seemed to span between time and eternity." The inscription on the watch reads: "Presented to Basil Lockwood by the clerks of the Record and Pension division of the War department in recognition of his heroic conduct in the Ford Theater disaster June 9, 1893."

WEST POINT.

July 10.—Miss Mary Parks, Beda, is visiting relatives in this neighborhood.

Miss Sue Tichenor, who has been visiting friends and relatives at Centertown, is now the guest of her sister, Mrs. D. J. K. Maddox, of the Providence neighborhood.

Misses Ella Wade and Jennie Casbier, who have been visiting relatives in this neighborhood, returned to their home near Rockport Sunday.

Mrs. Charlotte Tichenor and little grand-daughter, Nellie, are visiting relatives in the Providence neighborhood this week.

Miss Mantie Hicks, one of Livermore's most popular organists, is teaching a music school in this neighborhood. Miss Mantie is an excellent teacher.

The ice cream supper at Mr. S. A. Bratcher's, was highly enjoyed by all. After supper and some excellent music by the brass band the young ladies present marched out and presented each of the band boys a nice bouquet as a token of their appreciation of the music. Then Mr. A. B. Tichenor arose and extended the thanks of the host and hostess to the band for its valuable assistance in entertaining their many guests. VIOLET.

Election Notice.

OHIO COUNTY COURT, July Term, '93
David Duncan and others for Graded Free School.

On petition of J. M. Williams, W. A. Bell, S. O. Maple, J. G. Williams, S. M. Duncan, W. M. Russell, D. J. Duncan, John J. Gilman, C. W. Layton, E. C. Woodburn, A. M. Herrell, R. E. Her, E. C. Campbell, R. T. Her, Jo. Smith, V. L. Ward, J. W. Ross and David Duncan, legal voters and Tax-payers of Rockport, Ohio county, Kentucky, (School District No. 82,) it is ordered by Court that a Graded Free School District be and is hereby established, bounded as follows: Beginning at the mouth of Lewis Creek on Green River, thence up Green River to the mouth of Williams' Creek, thence to include H. D. Jackson to the railroad at a point half way between the corporate limits of the town of Rockport and the east line of the Ure land near Echo's, thence to John T. Casbier's including him and excluding the Ure farm, the Daugherty farm and D. J. Wilcox, thence down Lewis Creek to the beginning. It is further ordered that the sheriff of Ohio county open a poll in said Graded Free School District on the 29th day of July, 1893, for the purpose of taking the sense of the legal white voters in said proposed graded free school district upon the proposition whether or not they will vote an annual tax of (50) fifty cents on each one hundred dollars ($100) worth of property assessed in said district belonging to said white voters, and a poll tax of ($1.50) one dollar and fifty cents per capita on each white male inhabitant over twenty-one years of age residing in said graded free school district, for the purpose of erecting suitable buildings and maintaining a good graded free school in said district or for the payment of principal and interest on any such bonds not exceeding ($2,000) two thousand dollars as the Board of Trustees of said proposed graded free school district may issue and sell under the provisions of this act for the purpose aforesaid, not however, exceeding in amount the sum of $2,000. It is further ordered that said sheriff shall at the same time and place of said election above named, open a poll for the election of (6) six trustees for said district.

A copy. Attest:
ROWAN HOLBROOK, Clerk.
By L. P. LONEY, D. C.

In accordance with the foregoing order I will on the 28th day of July, 1892 cause to be opened a poll in said graded free school district No. 21, Rockport, Ky., for the purpose of taking the sense of the legal white voters in said proposed graded free school district upon the proposition as to whether or not they will vote an annual tax of (50) fifty cents on each ($100) one hundred dollars worth of property assessed in said district belonging to said white voters and a poll of ($1.50) one dollar and fifty cents per capita on each white male inhabitant over twenty-one years of age residing in said graded free school district, for the purpose of erecting suitable buildings and maintaining a good graded free school. At the same time and place I will in accordance to the above order, cause to be opened a poll for the election of (6) six trustees for said graded free school in said district.

TOWN TATTLER.

I never thought I was much of a hand to "sponge" off of my friends but it seems strange that every time Henry Nall makes a bucket of lemonade I just happen to be around for my share. You will remember that it was only a few weeks ago when Henry with some more friends was getting on the outside of a bucket of circus lemonade that I dropped in on the boys, and such another treat as I did get. Well, last week, Henry Nall, Jesse Bean and Will Moore made up a bucketful of old fashioned lemonade, that of the proverbial variety—"the ice cold ice lemonade that was made in the shade and stirred with a spade, the same that was warranted not to break, rip, tear nor run down at the heel," and as I was about to remark, had gone to the Court House yard to enjoy the delicious drink. I am at a loss to know what persuaded them to go to the Court House yard. Would not a back room somewhere be more secure from interruption? Perhaps Henry had thought of my knack of dropping around at such times and chose the yard around the Temple of Justice (?) as a place not liable to be disturbed by my unhallowed feet. But, oh, how poor his calculations! Then I think may be the boys chose this place and particular time as an excuse to smile at the girls in the Teachers Examination in Court Hall. However far from the truth these speculations may be one thing most certain, and, by the way, the one wherein my pleasure lay, I happened along in time to get an invitation to partake and it is needless to say that I partook and then partook again and again. Delicious draughts—that lemonade. I wish I knew something I could do for those boys commensurate with my appreciation of their exquisite kindness, but, boys, I'm unequal to the task.

But speaking of lemonade reminds me just a little of a recent experience. It was at Beaver Dam, and I was dead broke, or in the manner so, but summoned up my cash and found altogether I had ten cents. I had a friend, too, a good friend, a friend who had labored earnestly as a pedagogue to drive at least one or two ideas into my dull head, and on this occasion I felt that just the proper thing would be to treat that friend to lemonade. Well, we sauntered up to the stand kept by the pretty girl in the red dress and I ordered two lemonades. They were put up on short order and would have tickled a king. I carelessly threw down my ten cents, and was remarking how well the young lady could manipulate the lemon, when she looked up at me piercingly from under her long lashes and said tenderly, but I assure you, very forcibly (to me) "Ten cents a glass, please." I was just in the act of lifting the glass to my lips when this unlooked for turn of things happened. I was paralyzed. I could neither raise nor lower that arm. I finally recovered and I began fumbling through my pockets and in the far corner of one seldom frequented I found a rusty dime that long ago I had laid by for need. I threw this down proudly and walked out, greatly relieved. The maid and my friend took in the situation at once and smiled very knowingly at each other. I hereby shake off the dust from my feet against Beaver Dam so far as buying lemonade is concerned until there is more money in the country.

Jo. Cartwright was waylaid and murdered Saturday night by either Dan or Mike Tierney, all of the Pincheo neighborhood in Breckenridge county.

John D. Keown and Miss Nora Staple, of Fordville, were married at the Commercial Hotel yesterday evening. Rev. G. J. Bean officiating. Mr. L. P. Bruner and Miss Huff were members of the party.

E. K. Barnard, Smallhouse, made an assignment Tuesday. Liabilities, $4,000; assets about the same amount. L. P. Foreman, assignee, and W. M. Fair went down Wednesday to look through the business.

There were forty applicants for certificates in the recent examination. The papers are not all graded, however, and it is impossible to give anything like the number of certificates that will be granted. Suffice it to say there will be several failures and only a few first-class certificates; the larger number being second and third-class.

A very pleasant entertainment was given last Thursday evening, July 6, at Mrs. Jas. A. Thomas, in honor of Misses Sallie Cate and Mabel King. The evening was spent in innocent games, and at 10:30 an elegant repast was served, after which all departed for home, feeling that they had spent one of the most enjoyable occasions of the season.

The big culvert just across the bridge has been torn away and the depression is being filled with dirt. This lies directly in the path of the break in the river above, where an immense stream of water pours violently through on each recurring rise. The bank is rapidly washing out and it seems that nothing less than a heavy rock wall across the mouth of the break can stop the destruction that is being wrought.

The following named young people composed a gay party to Hocker's Bluff Tuesday: Misses Mabel Kimbley, Etta and Lilly Thomas, Berta and Lida Morton, Mabel Brown, Jennie Quisenberry, Letta Marks, and Messrs. R. D. Walker, J. S. Vought, Henry Nall, R. T. Collins. Dr. J. H. White, Misses Mary Cox and Stella Thomas, chaperons. The day was spent in playing croquet, the old-fashioned singing plays, eating a fine dinner furnished by the young ladies and in having an all around good time.

The series of meetings held by Revs. Ross and Hartford at Fordville has closed. No such religious awakening was ever before manifested at Fordville. Rev. Ross is an evangelist of unusual power. There were twenty-nine additions to the Methodist Church, and Sunday night ninety-four gave their hands to be prayed for. Mr. G. B. Williams was present and conducted the singing a portion of the time.

never failed to have good congregations and on Saturday night the church was crowded to its uttermost.

All who failed to hear Bro. Ross on the "Triple Alliance of Sin: The Government of the United States; The Wages of Sin," missed a luxuriant scriptural feast.

Success to the REPUBLICAN.

VIRGIL.

Col. John McHenry no More.

Our people were greatly surprised Saturday morning to hear of the death of Col. John H. McHenry, of Owensboro, which unlooked for event occurred at that place at 12:30 that morning. The news reached here by telegraph. Col. McHenry had been enjoying reasonably good health, and retired the night before feeling well but on getting up during the night for a drink of water he fell and expired in a few moments. The relatives were at once notified. The funeral took place at Elmwood Sunday evening in charge of the American Order of United Workmen, of which he was a prominent member.

Colonel McHenry was a noble man, a brave soldier and a firm and lasting friend. In the early part of the war he organized the famous 17th Ky. Regiment and was in camp for some time at the old Fair Grounds. His men loved him dearly and the 17th became noted for its good fighting qualities. He was Post-master at the time of his death, having been appointed under the Harrison Administration. Many relatives, old soldiers and friends, made in social and civil life, will mourn his untimely taking away. But two of the boys of that large family remain, Estill, at St. Louis, and Lemuel at Louisville.

Some Business Changes at Beaver Dam.

H. B. Taylor, Jr., has purchased the share of Hiley Taylor in the large dry goods establishment of Taylor & Co., and has taken a position behind the counter. Hiley has not yet determined what he will do, but is hustling a fellow as he will not be idle long. We wish Harb much success in his new departure.

Perry Westerfield, well known to the trading public of this county, having been engaged as clerk with M. M. Kahn, of this city, and the Company Store at Taylor Mines, has taken a position as salesman with Taylor & Co. He begins next week.

E. D. Tillford has purchased the storehouse formerly occupied by W. H. Blankenship, and is having the same remodeled, overhauled and made almost new, preparatory to moving in with his large stock of groceries and confectioneries.

Geo. M. Maddox, formerly Post-master at Rockport, has purchased an interest in the livery stable owned and operated by Hiram Maddox. Mr. Maddox will move his family up from Rockport next week.

Perhaps Fatal.

On Monday Mrs. John Davis, living beyond Beaver Dam, happened to a very serious if not fatal accident. Mr. Davis had a cow tied head and foot and by some means the cow got a pole fast in the rope. In order to relieve her he called to Mrs. Davis to bring a knife with which to cut the rope. She came at once, but Mr. Davis is almost totally blind, so she proceeded to cut the rope herself, when the cow made a sudden struggle throwing the pole violently against Mrs. Davis' head, knocking her senseless. The cow ran over her several times finally falling upon her heavily. Mrs. Davis has been unconscious almost ever since and fears are entertained that she will not recover.

BEAVER TOWN.

July 11.—Cutting oats is the order of the day, though the most of the crop has been harvested.

Mrs. Dr. A. C. Haynes, of Indianapolis, and her father, S. D. Woodward, of Owensboro, spent last week in town, the guests of E. C. Woodward and family.

Misses Zella and Laura Stewart, of McHenry, have been visiting in town the past two weeks, the guests of V. M. Stewart and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Davis, of Buel, McLean county, visited relatives here last Sunday.

Misses Annie Stevens and Rhoda Hipsley, of Livermore, visited relatives here last week.

Rev. E. E. Pate preached a splendid sermon at the school house last Sunday afternoon. We would be glad to have Bro. Pate with us often.

Messrs. Joe and Eddie Stewart went to Rosine Sunday, returning Monday.

C. B. Shaver attended the Ice Cream supper at Pleasant Ridge last Saturday night.

Born, to the wife of J. B. Iler on the 8th inst., a fine girl.

Cornell by Her Betsey, a School-mistress, who was Moved

[SATURDAY BLADE.]

There is something singularly fascinating about a locality where crime has been committed. Forty-three persons passed north and south, up and down Second Street by the Borden house, within fifteen minutes this morning, and just forty-three of those persons seemed irresistibly impelled to fasten their eyes on the plain and closely-shuttered structure from the time when it came within immediate range of their vision until they had passed by it. But one of these forty-three persons had the appearance of being a stranger in the city and he was riding in a farmer's wagon, the driver of which pointed and pointed and pointed at the plain wooden dwelling with a relish that showed itself in his rapid speech and animated face.

Rank offences that smell to heaven, to paraphrase Shakespeare, have been committed in that part of Fall River south of the city hall, and the fact that no less than six human beings have lost their lives by foul means, including the victims of the last summer's homicide, within a radius of half a mile of the Borden house, in no wise lessens the gruesomeness of the locality.

Two of these crimes, the murder of the Borden and the strangling to death of Sarah Maria Cornell by Rev. Ephraim K. Avery, the latter over sixty years ago, have been so atrocious and horrifying as to startle the whole country. The third tragic event was the deed of an insane mother, also a Borden, who, in a fit of mental aberration drowned her two young children in a cistern and then cut her throat. This woman lived on the same side of the street and next to the Borden house.

There is one other event, which created a tremendous sensation. It was the exhuming of the famous skeleton in armor from a sand bank on what is now Fourth Street, not ten rods in the rear of the Borden house.

An ugly find was this, but as the gentleman wore the clanking brass must have been buried 150 years before his bones were accidentally found, their rattle did not materially disturb or thrill the good people of the border city.

In life he was not a Bowen or a Borden or a Durfee, for numerous as the families are in these parts, the members were all accounted for. So, when a certain Longfellow reported the find in verse, and with a poet's license placed all of romance about the gasty discovery, everybody was quite willing to believe the armor-wearer had been a "Viking bold," and had sailed the seas in just such a craft as was manned by Norsemen and welcomed at Newport within a day or two.

The blessing of forgetfulness and the flight of time soften all sin and sorrow more or less, but the hideousness of the crimes Fall River has witnessed will never quite fade into indistinction.

Look back more than half a century.

The year of grace 1832 is fast drawing to a close, and the festival of Christ's nativity is almost upon the good New Englanders. Clear and cool dawns the morning of December 21—the day of the discovery of the murder of Sara Maria Cornell, found hanging to a supporting stake of a temporary fence around a now in a stock yard of John Durfee, a farmer, in the locality now known as South park, a beautiful playground, and a portion of the border city.

Fall River was not so large then as it is now, and the dividing line between Massachusetts and Rhode Island ran differently. Durfee's farm was in Rhode Island one half a mile from the Fall River Bridge and one-quarter of a mile from the State line.

Of all the crimes in the late history of New England the killing of Miss Cornell was perhaps the most atrocious, and the subsequent trial of her betrayer and slayer, Rev. Ephraim K. Avery, was certainly fraught with great interest.

It was the church against the State—and the church won—for Avery was acquitted, despite the great amount of almost conclusive evidence of guilt which the state put in.

When Durfee found the body hanging, as stated, the knees of the victim were in six inches of the ground, her arms and gloved hands were inside a cloak which enveloped her, and her clothing showed no indication of a death struggle. The neck was not broken, and the most peculiar and damning evidence of foul play was the knot in the rope around the girl's neck.

The knot was what is known as the clove hitch, not a slip noose, and to produce death by strangulation both ends of the rope had to be drawn simultaneously.

The rope was imbedded in her neck over an inch and the gloves on her hands showed no signs of wear or contact with the rope.

Besides this there were evidence of bruises and injuries on her body that could not have been self-inflicted.

The first person to identify the victim was the good old Fall River doctor, to whom some weeks previous she had explained her condition, and to whom also she had confided the name of her betrayer, Rev. Ephraim K. Avery, a Methodist minister of Bristol, R. I.

It was some time before any action was taken to apprehend the guilty one. The homicide had been committed in Rhode Island, so the people of Fall River did not act with the promptitude which would have characterized them had the crime taken place within the limits of the town. But finally, according to a narrative published in 1833, "the inhabitants of Fall River on the Massachusetts side (where they do business off hand and not quite so clumsily as they do in Rhode Island)," did take action with the final result, after surmounting many legal difficulties, of securing the apprehension of Rev. Ephraim K. Avery in Rindge, N. H., whither he had fled presumably to wait until the affair had blown over.

Then came the famous trial at Newport May 6, 1833, in which 239 witnesses testified before Justices Eddy, Brayton and Durfee.

On Saturday, June the 1st, the case went to the jury at 7 p. m. and a verdict of "not guilty" was returned at midnight Sunday, after being out seventeen hours.

The interests of the State were looked after by Atty. Gen. A. C. Greene, Dutce J. Pierce and William R. Staples, while the prisoner was defended by Hon. Jeremiah Mason, of New Hampshire, who was assisted by five other lawyers of more or less repute.

Lawyer Mason's argument occupied eight hours in the delivery and was one of the most remarkable and shrewdest pieces of arguing ever heard in a criminal court.

Great exertions were made by the defense to prevent witnesses testifying against the prisoner. A story is told of the sheriff of Newport running a nine-mile race with a Methodist minister to see who would get to the house of a witness first. The minister proved to be the fleetest on foot, and when the sheriff arrived he found the witness too ill to attend the court.

A writer who signs himself Aristides, and who compiled the testimony at the conclusion of the trial, comments as follows:

"Never was a criminal trial instituted and carried through in this country in which so much baseness was manifest, so much chicanery practiced, the public, the government, the court and jury so deeply insulted, nor an accused man acquitted with such a chain of circumstances against him. The whole machinery of the Methodist church has been brought into operation and made to bear on the hall of justice. Perjury, base and foul, has been committed on the stand and under the sanction of a religious garb."

There is a well authenticated anecdote which has for its foundation a conversation between Daniel Webster and Jeremiah Mason, the counsel for Avery. Mr. Webster and Mr. Mason were great personal friends and mutual admirers.

One day the subject of the famous trial came up in Webster's talk with Mason and he said:

"Now that the trial has gone by let me again congratulate you on the ability you displayed, Mr. Mason; but tell me what you really think—was Avery guilty?"

"Guilty as the devil!" replied the New Hampshire lawyer, with a grim smile.

Sarah Maria Cornell was born in 1812 in Rupert, Vt., and was of a good family. Of Avery little was known of his antecedents except that it was supposed he was the son of a revolutionary soldier. He was first heard of in Duxbury and then in Scituate, Mass.

In Fall River to-day the local historian will show you a tree on the South park which is said to be the exact spot where the girl was found hanging, but the Durfee farm house is no more.

Some time back in the forties, about 1845, the little low cottage house next to the Borden estate on Second street was occupied by Ladwick Borden, an uncle of the late Andrew J. Borden, and here it was about that time that Ladwick Borden's wife, Eliza, in a fit of temporary insanity, drowned her two youngest children in a cistern and then cut her own throat.

An older child, a girl, married, and to-day living in Fall River, escaped from the clutches of the irresponsible woman, or she, too, would have been a victim of her mother's diseased mind.

This was the second of the great crimes, and, while it was horrifying in the extreme, it did not create the sensation which accompanied the murder of Miss Cornell and is to-day almost forgotten by the inhabitants. Indeed, if it had not been brought to mind by the Borden tragedy last August in the next house it would have passed entirely from memory.

WONDERFUL.A Yankee Tells of the Petrified Forest in Arizona.

"There's hundreds of wonderful things there in America that we don't pay heed to," said a Yankee traveling in England.

"You mean Niagara falls and the Mammoth cave and such things?" said a bystander.

"Behave! We don't count caves nor waterfalls nor burning mountains nor boiling springs, though we can beat creation in such things. Say, did any of you fellows hear of the petrified forest in Arizona—hundreds of thousands of acres of stone forests?"

"And the trees standing?"

"The trees standing? Well, I should say so, and not only standing, but all in leaf and some of 'em in blossom, and others again full of nuts and other fruit. All turned into stone, mind you."

"And I suppose there were birds in the trees," sneered one.

"Birds? Yes, sir, no end of birds—all of the most beautiful plumage and all turned into stone. Even the nests in the trees and the eggs in them were petrified in the most wonderful manner you ever saw. I see some of you fellows doubt me. Well, all I have to say is that what I am telling you is true, and I'll bet any sum on it and take you there to prove it. I'll tell you what I saw last time I was in the petrified forest. There was a hunter who must have been in the forest when the petrification took place, for he was petrified, too, and there he stood as straight as you please, with a petrified gun on his shoulder—a taking aim at a petrified bird. Why, the whole thing was so natural that you could see the shot and smoke coming out of the muzzle of the—"

"I've got you there!" interrupted the Englishman. "The law of gravitation would have brought down the smoke and the bullets."

"So it would," said the Yankee, "but the funny thing about it was that the law of gravitation was petrified, too, and so the blamed thing could not work."—Yankee Blade.

He Got Away.

"Be you the man who keeps the marriage book?"

The voice was sharp and high, and the manner in which the inquiry was delivered caused the busy clerk in the department of vital statistics to drop his pen and wheel about.

Great Scott! What a libel on beautiful woman met his eye. This creature was gaunt and tall. Her long and bony hands and wrists were strong and dainty, and her ginger hair was wadded on her head. She looked formidable.

"I say, mister, I want to know if you keep them marriage books, and be sure about it, 'cause I don't want waste no time."

The creature was the possessor of a set of uneven, tussock teeth, which she was constantly digging at with her finger while talking, and when assured that that was the place to find the books she rambled:

"Kin you find out when Ed Galpin was married?"

A search brought to light the fact that such a person was married about two weeks previous.

"Umph!" she grunted, "married Lize Waters, didn't he?"

"He did," answered the clerk.

"Well, I'm Lize," said the woman, "an I jest dropped in to tell you that he's escaped."—New York Mercury.

Prohibition Convention.

AKRON, Ky., June 29, 1893. The Prohibitionists of Ohio county are hereby called to meet in convention at Hartford, July 25, at 10 a. m.

Every Prohibitionist is earnestly requested to be present, as this will be an interesting gathering, it being the first convention of the kind ever held in Ohio county.

A candidate for the Legislature is to be nominated, which in itself should insure great interest among the Prohibitionists of the county, he sides other important business will be transacted.

In the meantime, I will address the citizens of Ohio county at the following places: Select, July 10. Cromwell, July 11. Beaver Dam, July 12. McHenry, July 13. Rockport, July 14. Centertown, July 15. Green River Union Church, July 17. Buford, July 18. Fordsville, July 19. Rosine, July 20. Speaking beginning at 8 o'clock p. m.

Cured With one Bottle.

Mr. Jordan Baker, Tifton, Ga., had muscular rheumatism for ten years. After using half a bottle of Drummond's Lightning Remedy for rheumatism, he wrote to the manufacturers that he was satisfied that he would be cured by the time the bottle was used up. If you want satisfaction, insist on having Drummond's Lightning Remedy. Nothing can take its place. Of Druggists or direct, with full particulars, from Drummond's Medicine Co., 48-50 Maiden Lane, New York. Agents wanted.
